A cross section of Torrance residents gave firm support to the President's decision to send troops in the Middle East. Those questioned by the Herald's reporter felt the decision, although a grave one, was the proper answer to the crisis.

Here are the localities answers to:

"What is your opinion about President Eisenhower sending Marines into Lebanon?"

Dan Mass, 1742 B. Cabillo Ave., assistant finance manager: "I just got out of the service. I think the move was a. s. It's already had some effect. Our show of force may keep the peace. The Russians are backing off, I believe."

Mrs. Myrna Allison, 2443 Andreo, housewife:

Evidently President Eisenhower felt it was necessary or else he wouldn't have taken such a drastic step. I feel that this will serve as a deterrent to further aggression. It worked in Korea."

Darla Trimble, of Redding:

"I guess he had to do it. I don't think this will cause another world war. The show of strength will save us from war. I'm not too sure what the Russians will do now."

Mrs. Claudia Griffin, 820½ W. 25th St., receptionist:

"I have a husband and brother the right age if this turns out to be a war. I'm afraid of the situation. I hope it's not another war. But this was the only thing he could do... he had no other choice."

Robert Cozer, 277 Arlington Ave., blacksmith:

"He's the good man of the United States, so he ought to know what he's doing. He's an old warrior."

THE BIG BOY ... Steve Bilko took time off from his home run hitting chores with the Los Angeles Dodgers to pay a visit to Fred Diesel, 1898 Post Ave., yesterday morning. While former major leaguer George Vito, of Torrance, looks on, Bilko signs autographs on a ball for Diesel, a polio victim, who also is one of Bilko's most avid fans. The Dodger player and other teammates conducted a clinic for more than 500 Torrance youngsters yesterday. (Herald Photo)

Pool Safety Move Asked Of Council

Routine masters with the council being asked to pass an ordinance requiring fencing of swimming pools, will occupy the attention of city fathers at their regular weekly meeting scheduled at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

The city council members will study an ordinance protecting swimming pool similar to those in effect in many other sections of Los Angeles county. Repeal of Section 16.57 of the municipal code relating to the distribution of handbills will be acted on and the following provisions substituted.

All handbills must be delivered to the door of any house, apartment or place of business, or handed to a person, and not otherwise left or thrown upon private or public property. One copy only of the same handbill shall be delivered to any house, apartment, place of business or person in any one day. This section shall not apply to handbills sent through the United States mails.

No handbill shall be placed within or upon any automobile or vehicle.

For the purpose of this section, handbills shall mean any handbill, doohic, circular, folder, booklet, letter, card, pamphlet, sheet, poster, slicker, banner, notice, or other written, printed or painted matter which advertises any business person or product.

City Clerk Bartlett Has Major Surgery

Albert H. Bartlett, Torrance city clerk, was reported in "excruciating" condition yesterday at Torrance Memorial Hospital.

Bartlett successfully underwent major surgery for a perforated ulcer Friday.

The city clerk, who has held the post for 27 years, recently was honored at a testimonial dinner. Nearly 200 persons were on hand to extend congratulations as he started a new term.

With the exception of a short period when H. J. Deininger served as the city clerk after the city's incorporation, Bartlett has been the only one to hold the office.

The damaged craft was successfully raised yesterday with all equipment intact.

Gala Week Begins

City Celebrates Ranchero Days

With street banners wafting and final parade plans announced, Torrance stands ready to usher in Ranchero Days.

Officially, the week's celebration gets under way this afternoon when residents meet in Torrance Park at the bandshell for a western variety show, 1 p.m.

Western bands, singers and guests will be on hand to entertain at the admission-free concert.

Plans to open the carnival midway Wednesday, 6 p.m.

have been revealed by Jack Phillips, general chairman of the celebration. The carnival with rides, food, and booths will continue operations throughout Sunday, the closing day of the fete.

Some 28 organizations are joining in the event. All food and game booths at the carnival will be operated by local groups. Proceeds will go toward the construction and decoration of the Torrance entry in the Tournament of Roses Parade at Pasadena New Year's Day.

Televisie Rodeo
KTIV television will telecast the rodeo Sunday July 27, at 2:30 p.m. Bill Welsh will handle the commentary describing the wild bronc riding, steer bulldogging, calf roping, wild Brahama bull riding, trick roping and trick riding.

Many of the nation's top rodeo contestants will be on hand both Saturday and Sunday to compete for points toward the annual national championships.

New Teachers Employed by School Board

A total of 135 new teachers and other certified personnel have been hired for the new school year by the Torrance Unified School District, according to school officials. Some 33 positions remain to be filled.

Torrance's growing school population — about 23,600 strong — will be supervised by nearly 300 teachers and administrators this fall. Last September the district employed some 825 teachers and administrators.

The developers agreed to meet with Nancy Carpenter, a homeowner; Kenneth Uyeda of the planning commission, and Ronald Bonap, city engineer, to work out details of a planter strip to serve as a buffer zone between the industrial plant and the street.

The developers have indicated they proposed to open the tract to industry similar to that at Vail Field in East Los Angeles.

Robert C. Morton, director of personnel, said that teacher re-irement has progressed about as usual and that the remaining 33 positions will be filled soon.

Navy Ships Anchor
Beach residents have some thing of interest added to their ever changing view of the bay with two U.S. Navy ships anchored off Redondo Beach. Both ships are said to be engaged in coastal maneuvers planned long before the Malibu fire.

The ships were not identified by the 11th Naval District Headquarters at Long Beach.

A previous council action barred swimmers from all of the North Beach area inside the breakwater. City officials have been concerned with the possibility of injuries through collisions with motor boats.
